

MCEVOYS OF OSGOODE TOWNSHIP IRISH ANCESTRY FROM KILKENNY TO CANADA

INTRODUCTION

My primary purpose in developing this document is to gather together, in one place, the available ancestral/familial information, for the surviving family members of the late Augustine (Gus) McEvoy and his beloved wife, May (Hurley) McEvoy, my Aunt.

Gus McEvoy's great-grandparents Edmund McEvoy and Catherine Kennedy, and grandparents John McEvoy and Anastasia Power were some of the earliest Irish arrivals in Canada. They arrived in Montreal, most probably as early as 1826. Like many of the Irish Catholics arriving in Canada during that time, they too were likely encouraged by Father Patrick Phelan, an Irish priest in Montreal of the Order of St. Sulpice, to immediately settle in the augmentation of the Seigneurie of Lac de Deux Montagnes, in the northern part of the County of Deux Montagnes, Quebec which was unsettled land of the Sulpician Seigneurie.

The Edmund McEvoy family first settled on the south shore of the North River (now St-Canut, a section of the town of Mirabel) in what was part of the Parish of Ste-Scholastique, later to be absorbed by the Parish of St-Columban. However, on September 29, 1827, Edmund McEvoy purchased lot 1001 and thereby moved to the north shore of the river in the future territory of St-Columban.

These people were "real pioneers" and the best way to describe that to you is for me to extract from a report written by Father Lawrence P. Whalen in 1938, on the Parish of St-Columban:

"In a corner of the rugged Laurentians, the village of St-Columban today presents itself in a reminiscent mood. It goes back to its primitive state and begins its "once upon a time". No fairy tale this, but the stark reality of pioneering with its sufferings and with them the consolations, the roll of wheels to where wheels can no longer roll, the tramp of tired feet to where rest was only a prelude to more intensive labour, the trek of Irish Clans from Kilkenny, Kildare and Carlow ! Montreal left behind and a haven in sight where the courage and faith of Patrick's children were to take rest and build a community of Love and Devotion ! A hardy rare one hundred years ago wrestled with the soil and the stone, built itself a home and fed its occupants, mopped its tired brow and knelt in the sunlight of its new Chapel, for they brought their God with them. Their first move towards solidarity was the erection of their Chapel, they built the edifice towards which they all converged to feed their souls and satisfy their innate hunger to see their Sogarth Aroon, to hear his consoling words and to know, by his presence, of the blessings of God upon them.

The sacraments were to twine them together for miles around: a font for the new-born and a cemetery for their dead. A community of mind and heart to make them live the true life; peace on earth and God's Haven hereafter."

In 1832, Edmund McEvoy was an overseer for the building of bridges and the construction of roads in and around St-Columban. His sons John McEvoy and Thomas McEvoy were married in the original Chapel of St-Columban, to which Father Whalen refers, and had some of their children baptized there !

In the 1840s and 1850s, Edmund McEvoy's sons and their families brought this same pioneering spirit to Osgoode Township, Ontario. John McEvoy's establishment of the first Post Office in Osgoode at his homestead and the McEvoy families' donation of land upon which the St. John's Catholic Church, Rectory and Cemetery were developed are attestations to that spirit !

The following pages then will offer some facts, figures, stories and pictures of this McEvoy family of Osgoode Township and of their Irish Ancestry.

I must say that in the development of this document, more important than the usual record sources of statistical data, were the willing and loving contributions, memories and research of my 1st cousin McEvoy, particularly Philip and Pat McEvoy; of Debbi (Parle) Abbott (USA) a descendant of Edmund McEvoy's son Michael McEvoy and his wife Mary Costigan; of Claude Bourguignon, Ethnologist and author of the Book "St-Columban - An Irish Epic at the Foothills of the Laurentians", and of Michael Daley, local Historian of Osgoode Township and Bytown. I thank you so much for your help, in this which my wife Sheila and I consider to have been a "labour of love".

THE IRISH ORIGIN OF THE EDMUND MCEVOY FAMILY

Edmund McEvoy, his wife Catherine Kennedy, 2 daughters and 3 sons; Honora, Catherine, Michael, John and Thomas came to Canada from the village of Freshford, County Kilkenny, Ireland.

“Freshford is an attractive town about 10 miles north-east of Kilkenny City with a population today of close to 650 people. The village green forms the centre of the settlement and around this large space, 52 red horse chestnut trees grow, forming a dramatic scene particularly in spring when the trees are flowering. Much of Freshford’s social life is concentrated close to the green. The Roman Catholic and Church of Ireland buildings are both adjacent to the green, as is the village’s community hall and a coffee shop and a number of pubs.

The town has a considerable amount of industry for its size. This includes the Honey Clover meat factory, B & C cheese processors and a number of quality furniture makers. The Nuenna Equestrian Centre gives the town another complimentary enterprise focus, as does the professionally designed Millennium Park. The River Nuenna runs through the village entering it at the scenic rapids at Larkin Bridge; skirting the Millennium Park on the north-east side and running east, by St. Lachtain’s Well, towards its junction with the River Nore.

Other sites worth a visit is Ballylarkin Abbey with its fine gothic arches and windows and the Uppercourt manor, a privately owned Georgian building with excellent Italian plasterwork. Uppercourt is currently used solely as an antique showroom and storehouse, but the owner proposes to sympathetically renovate and develop it into residential units.”

EDMUND MCEVOY

Edmund M. McEvoy
1781 - 1834

married

Catherine Kennedy
1773 - 1861

Edmund McEvoy was born in the Village of Freshford, County Kilkenny, Ireland about 1781, and he married Catherine Kennedy of Freshford about the year 1800. Catherine was born about 1773. Catherine and Edmund McEvoy gave birth to 7 children in Ireland: daughter Honora (Eleanora) McEvoy (1801); son Michael McEvoy (1803); daughter Anastasia McEvoy (1808); son John McEvoy (1809); son Thomas McEvoy (1813); son Andrew McEvoy (1815); and daughter Catherine McEvoy (1818).

The Edmund McEvoy family immigrated to Canada at Montreal about 1826 and first settled on land in Ste-Scholastique, Quebec on the south shore of the Riviere du Nord which today is a section of the town of Mirabel.

In the fall of 1827, Edmund's family moved to the north shore of the River. Quebec land records indicate that on September 29, 1827, Edmund McEvoy purchased Lot 1001 "de la cote Riviere du Nord", in the Sulpician Seigneurie of Lac des Deux Montagnes (which would become part of the territory of St-Columban). The land consisted of 3 by 50 acres and 62/100 without any buildings. Quebec census records for the year 1831 show that 150 acres of the land were occupied and 24 acres were cultivated. The cultivated land produced 10 winchester bushels of peas; 308 bushels of oats; 10 bushels of rye; 60 bushels of corn and 150 bushels of potatoes. Livestock on the property at the time consisted of 7 cattle, 1 horse and 8 pigs. Edmund's son Michael McEvoy retained the land on the south shore of the River to develop a farm for himself.

Edmund M. McEvoy died December 12, 1834. He was buried in Pioneer Cemetery, Ste-Scholastique, Quebec. After Edmund's death, his son John McEvoy purchased this property (i.e. lot 1001) August 29, 1836. He sold this same property to an individual from Montreal on February 5, 1842 prior to his relocation to Osgoode Township, Ontario.

Edmund's wife Catherine McEvoy (Kennedy) died in Osgoode Township at the age of 88 years February 27, 1861, after having relocated there with her son Michael's family in the late 1850s. She was buried in St. John's Cemetery, Enniskerry, Osgoode, Ontario.

Edmund and Catherine's first child Honora (Eleanora) McEvoy was born in Freshford, Kilkenny in 1801. Honora married Patrick Grace, son of Michael Grace and Mary Gaven, March 2, 1829, in Ste-Scholastique, Quebec. The 1851 Census record for St-Columban, Quebec shows that Honora and Patrick had 9 children living with them at that time: son Michael Grace (1830); daughter Catherine Grace (1834); son Edward Grace (1835); daughter Mary Grace (1838); daughter Judith Grace (1841); daughter Bridget Grace (1843); daughter Margaret Grace (1845); daughter Ann Grace (1847); and son James Grace (1849). Honora (Eleanora) died April 20, 1867 and Patrick died April 10, 1882. Both were buried in the St-Columban Cemetery, Quebec.

Edmund and Catherine's first son Michael McEvoy was born in Freshford, Kilkenny in 1803. He married Mary Costigan, September 22, 1834 in Ste-Scholastique, Quebec. Census Records for 1851 and a Baptism Record for 1852 indicate that Michael and Mary were still living in Ste-Scholastique Parish, County of Deux Montagnes, in a one storey stone house, with 7 children all born in the area; son Edward Patrick McEvoy (1835), daughter Catherine McEvoy (1839), son John McEvoy (1841), daughter Honora "Anna" McEvoy (1843), son Matthew McEvoy (1845), daughter Mary McEvoy (1850); daughter Bridget McEvoy (1852); and Michael's Mother, Catherine Kennedy. Michael and Mary also gave birth to a daughter Mary in January 1837, who died in August 1838 and was buried in Ste-Scholastique. Michael and his family relocated to Osgoode, Ontario, Lot 29, Concession 2 in the late 1850s. Michael McEvoy died March 31, 1867 at the age of 64 years. He was buried in St. John's Cemetery, Enniskerry, Osgoode. His wife Mary Costigan died May 5, 1892 and is buried there as well.

Edmund and Catherine's second son John McEvoy married Anastasia Power. John and Anastasia are the great-grandparents of the children of Gus McEvoy and May Hurley. Before relocating to Osgoode Township around 1843, John and Anastasia McEvoy resided on farmland in St. Columban, Quebec, Lot 1001 in the Laurentian Mountains.

Freshford Parish church records show that Edmund and Catherine's fourth child, daughter Anastasia McEvoy was christened May 20, 1808. No other records have been found to indicate that she survived or came to Canada.

Son Thomas McEvoy (third son) was christened in the Parish of Freshford, Kilkenny March 25, 1813. Thomas married Mary O'Rourke February 19, 1844 in St-Columban, Quebec and they relocated to Osgoode Township, Lot 17, Concession 3, not long afterwards. Thomas and Mary gave birth to 6 children:

daughter Mary McEvoy(1855); daughter Catherine McEvoy(1857); daughter Jane McEvoy (1859); daughter Bridget H. McEvoy(1861); son Michael J. McEvoy(1862); and son Samuel J. McEvoy(1864). Thomas McEvoy died December 22, 1884 at the age of 72 years. He was buried in St. John's Cemetery, Enniskerry, Osgoode.

Freshford Parish church records show that son Andrew McEvoy was christened December 10, 1815. No other records have been found to indicate that he survived or came to Canada.

Freshford Parish church records show that daughter Catherine McEvoy was christened August 9, 1818. Catherine married Nicholas Grace June 2, 1846 in the Notre Dame Cathedral in Montreal. The 1861 Census record for Osgoode Township shows that Catherine (McEvoy) Grace, a widow, was residing on her brother Michael McEvoy's farm, with her son Nicholas Grace, age 11 years. She was buried in St. John's Cemetery, Enniskerry, Osgoode.

Edmund M. McEvoy's brother Thomas McEvoy and his wife Margaret Marshall and their family also immigrated to Canada and settled in the Ste-Scholastique/St. Columban area of the county of Deux Montagnes. In fact, passenger records for May 26, 1826 of the Steam Boat Chambly show that Thomas McEvoy and 4 others were aboard the Chambly on its journey from Quebec City to Montreal. The record shows that they boarded the Chambly from the "Prince of Asturias" Ship which had sailed from Dublin April 17, 1826 and arrived in Quebec City May 25, 1826. On August 10, 1826, Thomas McEvoy acquired lots 1195 and 1197 from the Sulpicians, on the St. Patrick concession in Ste-Scholastique Parish which became part of St-Columban. Margaret and Thomas McEvoy had at least 5 children including Honora (Eleanor) McEvoy (1807) who married William Murphy May 3, 1830 in Ste- Scholastique, Quebec; Patrick McEvoy (1810) who married Cecilia "Celia" Doyle November 5, 1844; Michael McEvoy (1813 who died shortly after); Michael McEvoy (1816) and Edmund McEvoy (1820).

It is thought that James McEvoy who was married to Judith Kilfoyle (sic Gilfoil) in Freshford Parish June 10, 1824 and who subsequently married Catherine Delaney of St. Columban could also be a brother of Edmond M. McEvoy. Quebec land records show that on November 19, 1829, James McEvoy purchased lots 1248, 1249, 1250, 1251 of the St. Nicholas concession in Ste-Scholastique Parish, Quebec, which too would make up part of St-Columban. James turned around and sold lots 1248 and 1249. Prior to leaving St-Columban in the late 1840s, he also sold lots 1250 and 1251. In 1830, Thomas and James McEvoy were part of the St-Columban Committee, representing the St-Patrick Side of St-Columban, which petitioned His Lordship, the right reverend Dr. Latigue, bishop of Telemesse, for the construction of a chapel for the Irish community of St-Columban.

ST-COLUMBAN THEN AND NOW

It is believed that the families of brothers Edmund, Thomas and James McEvoy were part of a larger group of Irish Catholic Immigrants encouraged by Father Patrick Phelan, during the years 1825 – 1829, to move from Montreal to settle on land offered by the Sulpician Seigneurie in the Laurentians, within the areas of Ste-Scholastique and St-Columban.

In fact, there were other McEvoy's, whose direct family relationship is yet to be determined, who were a part of this group : Elizabeth McEvoy, wife of John Phelan; Margaret McEvoy, wife of Thomas McAndrews; Michael McEvoy, husband of Agnes McAndrews; Mary McEvoy, wife of Patrick Connor; and James McEvoy, husband of Bridget Kelly.

By examining marriage records of St-Columban, we have determined the following direct relationships of Edmund, Thomas and James McEvoy with other Irish Pioneer families of the area :

- 1) February 7, 1839, James Kinsella, son of William Kinsella and Martha Leonard married Anastasia McEvoy, daughter of James McEvoy and Catherine Delaney;
- 2) August 13, 1840, Elizabeth Keyes, daughter of Patrick Keyes and Honora Phelan, married Matthew Power, son of Richard Power and Bridget Murphy. Richard and Bridget are the parents of Anastasia Power, wife of John McEvoy;
- 3) January 27, 1851, Elizabeth Grace, daughter of Patrick Grace and Honora McEvoy, married William Green, son of John Green and Mary Turner;
- 4) February 14, 1854, Mary Grace, daughter of Patrick Grace and Honora McEvoy, married James Kennedy, son of John Kennedy and Mary Murphy;
- 5) January 19, 1857, Catherine Grace, daughter of Patrick Grace and Honora McEvoy, married Joseph Phelan, son of John and Mary Phelan;
- 6) September 19, 1864, Bridget Grace, daughter of Patrick Grace and Honora McEvoy, married James Ryan, son of John Ryan and Joanna Burke.

In the early 1830s, it was estimated that there were between 950 to 1000 Irish Catholic residents in the St-Columban area. They likely made up more than 90% of the total population living there. All encountered very difficult times in the beginning having to clear and develop the land and build their homes and farm buildings with the timber they had cut down. The soil there was classified as poor for agricultural purposes. For a people who depended on the fruits of the earth for their survival over the long term, the poor quality of the soil caused most of them to leave the area for more fertile land in Ontario and the United States by the late 1840s. When they left - their land, homes and farm buildings were at first taken over by Polish, Ukranian and Russian people, and then by French Canadians.

St-Columban today holds these pioneering Irish folk in very high regard recognizing that they brought human life to the area and were responsible for what St-Columban has become today. In 2005, the population of St-Columban was close to 10,000. In 1980, there were less than 1500 residents. Close to a quarter of today's population, is composed of young families who have been living there for less than five years. The town is a great area for recreation, skiing etc. in the winter and with its many rivers and lakes, water activity and golf in the spring and summer. The municipality has strict regulations to maintain its natural environment. More than 80% of St-Columban's citizens today are French speaking.

He came to Canada with his parents Edmund McEvoy and Catherine Kennedy, two brothers Michael and Thomas, and two sisters Honora and Catherine about 1825 -1826. John McEvoy married Anastasia Power, daughter of Richard Power and Bridget Murphy, February 8, 1836. Their marriage was the first marriage performed in the original Chapel of St. Columban's Parish, Quebec. Anastasia was also born in Ireland about the year 1811.

Anastasia Power and John McEvoy gave birth to 11 children: son Edmund McEvoy (1836); daughter Catherine McEvoy (1838); daughter Bridget McEvoy (1840) daughter Mary McEvoy (1841); son Patrick McEvoy (1844); daughter Honorah McEvoy (1846); son John Joseph McEvoy (1848); son Richard McEvoy (1850); daughter Ann McEvoy (1852); daughter Margaret McEvoy (1854); and son Philip McEvoy (1858).

Before relocating to Osgoode Township, Ontario about 1843, with his wife Anastasia, and his first 4 children, Edmund, Catherine, Bridget and Mary, John McEvoy operated a farm on Lot 1001 in the Laurentian Mountains at St-Columban, Quebec from 1836 to 1843. John McEvoy was the first Post Master of the Dawson Post Office which was established April 1, 1875 at the McEvoy Homestead in Osgoode, Ontario. In 1854, John's family, and the family of his first cousin Patrick McEvoy who was married to Celia Doyle, donated the land upon which St. John's Catholic Church Enniskerry, Rectory and Cemetery in Osgoode were established.

Patrick Grace
1797 - 1882

Honora (Eleanora) McEvoy, first born child of Edmond McEvoy and Catherine Kennedy, married Patrick Grace, son of Michael Grace and Mary Gaven, March 2, 1829 in Ste-Scholastique, Quebec. Patrick Grace was one of St-Columban's first municipal councilors serving under its first Mayor John Phelan. The 1851 census record for St-Columban, Quebec shows that Honora and Patrick were still living in St-Columban with 9 children, 6 daughters and 3 sons. Honora and Patrick were both buried in the St-Columban Catholic Cemetery.

I asked Kelley O'Rourke-Thomassin, who is the main contact person concerning historical/restoration matters dealing with the St-Columban Catholic Cemetery, if she could provide a photograph of their gravestone. Kelley informed me that there is no longer a gravestone for them, however part of the restoration project is to inscribe the names of everyone buried in the cemetery on a plaque. Kelley sent me the following information which was written in the church files concerning their burial.

Honora McEvoy's Burial:

On the twenty second day of April one thousand eight hundred and sixty seven, we the undersigned priest interred in the cemetery of this parish the body of Honora McEvoy, wife of Patrick Grace of this parish deceased two days previous, aged about sixty five. Present, Thomas Kinsella and Francis Monahan who could not sign.

Thomas and Mary are accordingly Kelley's great uncle and great aunt.

"Mom" To Many

FINAL TRIBUTE PAID MARGARET McEVOY

Friends and relatives were saddened to learn of the death of Mrs. Raymond McEvoy who died at Winchester District Memorial Hospital following a brief illness.

The late Mrs. McEvoy was honoured by the Canadian Government during Centennial Year when she was the recipient of the "Centennial Medal" in recognition of her work with foster children.

It was back in the middle thirties when Mrs. McEvoy, the mother of twelve children herself, was first approached by a social worker from the Children's Aid Society and asked if she could take a new-born infant into her home and care for it till such time as adoption proceedings could be finalized.

After discussing the matter with her husband and members of the family she decided to accept the challenge in an effort to help unfortunate children with no home and no loved ones.

This was the beginning of an enlightening experience for the entire family and a nursery was established in the Osgoode Township home on what old timers still refer to as the "old Frevelott Road". At first it was only infants and at one time three tiny bundles arrived on the same day to be cared for.

The greatest challenge and responsibility came, however, after several years when Margaret, as she was known to a host of friends, received a special request to accept a slightly emotionally disturbed child that no other foster home would take. Naturally she accepted and this was the beginning of a new era for the family and from that time till the present the kindly lady gladly made a home for those who were slow learners, were emotionally disturbed or suffered speech impediments. Officials entrusted with the difficult task of helping such children often expressed the opinion that if Margaret McEvoy couldn't manage and care for the child then there was no other avenue open except the difficult decision to send the child to an institution for life.

Mrs. McEvoy, the former Margaret Gillissie, was born in the Vernon area and following her marriage to the late Raymond McEvoy in 1920 moved to the Osgoode farm where she was to spend the rest of her life. The late Mrs. McEvoy is survived by twelve children: Gerald, Osgoode; Howard, Glenora;

Ont.; Madeline (Mrs. Leonard Thompson), South Gloucester; Vincent, Osgoode; Rev. Francis, Assistant Pastor of Blessed Sacrament Church, Ottawa; Walter, Osgoode; Sister Alice of the Immaculate Conception Order, Pembroke; Michael, Ottawa; Beatrice (Mrs. James Quinn), South Gloucester; Dennis, Osgoode; Genevieve (Mrs. Ray Warnell), Kingston; and Mary, Ottawa. Also surviving are 38 grandchildren and one aunt, Mrs. Margaret Cassidy.

Funeral services at St. John The Evangelist Church, Osgoode, was conducted by the late Mrs. McEvoy's son, Father Francis, assisted by Father Leo Hermans, Father Alfred Daly and twelve neighbouring priests. Altar servers, all grandchildren of the deceased were Arnold, Keith, Brian and Terry McEvoy.

The eulogy was given by Father Francis Tierney, a former pastor at St. John's and at the closing service Archbishop Joseph Fioretti paid gracious tribute to the woman who had been mother to so many including a priest.

Mrs. McEvoy was carried to her last resting place by six sons: Gerald, Howard, Vincent, Walter, Michael and Dennis. Interment was in the parish cemetery.
